1. The teacher (docents) will distribute the letters to the groups.
2. Instruct the groups to look at each letter and respond to the questions on the worksheet.
3. Each member will take notes, but the leader will report the group findings.
4. Have each group leader give a brief report.
5. At the conclusion:
Ask the question - Could the president have done anything to change the Supreme Court decision?

Explain the answer in a short discussion.

Also possible is an essay written later at school.
